Transmittal Letter

A MESSAGE FROM THE CEO/EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear President Brown and Members of the Executive Board,

It is my privilege to offer the proposed FY 2023 Budget recommendation for your consideration and approval.

This budget reflects our ongoing efforts to advance the priorities within Envision ICMA. It also reflects other priorities that have been established by the board and some by staff over the last two and a half years. Some of those include the globalization of ICMA, which entailed your approval of the new global strategy; establishment of the new dues structure; advancing our professional development capabilities; continuing our work regarding racial equity and social justice, and policing, to name a few. What has been really extraordinary is the fact that we've been able to focus on all of these priorities during what clearly has been an unprecedented period. Like other organizations, we have been challenged financially and in many other ways. Our ability to advance all of the work has caused considerable stress and strain on the ICMA employee family. That said, I couldn't be more proud of the ICMA staff because they have truly stepped up beyond all expectations.

In closing, I want to acknowledge ICMA's leadership team and the entire ICMA employee family for the work they have done on this budget recommendation, as well as the work they do every day to advance ICMA's mission. Finally, my sincere gratitude to President Brown and the entire Executive Board for your unwavering support and leadership during these challenging times.

Sincerely,

Marc A. Ott

CEO/Executive Director

Budget Overview

Summary

As ICMA emerges from the challenges posed by the global COVID-19 pandemic and its resulting impact on finances and operations, the proposed FY 2023 budget continues to demonstrate ICMA's long-standing commitment as the leading provider of relevant and timely support, professional development, and resources to its members and their communities. This budget builds on the work accomplished to-date in the implementation of the Envision ICMA Strategic Plan as well as new priorities that have emerged as a result of the pandemic and other recent events. The proposed budget maintains operational capacity and effective use of available resources to enable ICMA to accomplish its goals and objectives in FY 2023.

The proposed FY 2023 budget includes projected revenues from programs and services of approximately $31 million. Budgeted revenues are discussed in greater detail in the "Revenue Estimates" section of this document (p. 5). The proposed budget also includes an estimate of total operating expenses of approximately $31.5 million — resources necessary for ICMA to deliver on its goals and priorities. FY 2023 budgeted operating expenses are allocated to various functions and business teams. The "Expense Estimates" section of this document (p. 10) provides additional details regarding the FY 2023 allocation of resources.

The budget proposes the use of net assets of less than half a million dollars to contribute to ICMA's operations in FY 2023. These funds will be used to pursue programs and activities that are expected to help position ICMA for a financially sustainable future by generating higher revenues beyond FY 2023. This investment in operations for FY 2023 is necessary to the implementation and support of several priorities, including modernization of ICMA's professional development function, implementation of the newly redesigned strategic partner and sponsorship program, and the advancement of ICMA's global engagement strategy.

In addition, the proposed budget contains $320,000 in expenses that are not included in the operating budget and are proposed to be funded directly out of net assets. Additional details on the nature of these expenses are provided in the "Direct Uses from Net Assets" section of this document (p. 11).

Figure 1, FY 2023 budget summary, illustrates budgeted sources of revenue and allocation of resources to strategic outcome areas.

Revenue Estimates

Membership dues are expected to be approximately 2 percent lower than FY 2022 projections, given the October 1, 2022, launch of the new dues structure, which includes reduced dues rates and a discount for small communities.

Professional development consists of the credentialing program as well as various learning programs that are offered to local government professionals at various career stages, including leadership and other proprietary programs, workshops, and webinars. The implementation of the new learning management system (LMS), planned for the first quarter of FY 2023, is key to modernizing this business line by transforming it into a significant source of engaging and interactive learning experiences. This budget proposal assumes that for FY 2023, ICMA will continue offering some of the existing professional development and leadership programs while enhancing other learning experiences and designing new ones.

Conferences, events and sponsorships include the annual conference, regional conferences, the strategic partner program, and other partnerships and sponsor relationships.

Registration revenue for the annual conference in Columbus, Ohio, includes a 5 percent increase in registration rates and is budgeted with the assumption that paid attendance will reach approximately 75 percent of the attendance from the most recent pre-pandemic conference that was held in Nashville, Tennessee in October 2019. Budgeted sponsorships and exhibit hall revenues are based on prior years' results. In addition, a virtual conference is also being planned, which will include select content from the live event. In contrast with the previous two years when the annual conferences resulted in financial losses, the FY 2023 conference is expected to produce a net contribution of approximately $749,000. Despite the significant improvement in the expected net contribution, it will not be sufficient to meet one of the board-approved recommendations from the Task Force on Financing ICMA. This recommendation mandates that the annual conference should generate a 10 to 20 percent profit after all direct and indirect expenses are paid. Considering the unique challenges of conducting in-person events in an environment impacted by a global pandemic, along with significant increases in expenses, this budget proposes an exception to this policy for the Columbus conference.

In addition to the annual conference, ICMA plans to hold five "reimagined" regional conferences around the country between January and June 2023. The FY 2023 budget assumes these events will result in a small net contribution resulting from growth in paid attendance and increased sponsorships.

The budget proposal assumes 40 percent growth in strategic partner and sponsorship revenues, as compared with the current year budget. This is the result of the redesigned strategic partner program. In addition, the FY 2023 budget anticipates $100,000 in sponsorships for the Brownfields conference, slated to be held in Oklahoma City this coming August.

Publications, subscriptions, and advertising, which include sales of print and electronic publications and advertising revenues, are projected to remain at approximately the same levels as in prior years.

Management fees consist of revenues derived from management and administrative services provided to certain organizations and are expected to remain at the same levels as in prior years.

Subtenant rental income consists of rental revenue derived from subleasing a portion of the space leased by ICMA at the headquarters building. The significant reduction in revenue, compared with prior years is due to the fact that all subleases except one have expired and most of the excess space is now vacant. ICMA continues to be responsible for paying rent for the vacant space. While this space is being actively marketed, given the current subtenant market in the Washington, DC area, the budget assumes that most of this space will remain vacant through the end of FY 2023.

Royalty income includes licensing fees from ICMA-RC (dba MissionSquare Retirement¹) for the use of ICMA's name and brand. These are budgeted at the amount consistent with the agreement between ICMA and MissionSquare Retirement currently in place and are based on MissionSquare Retirement's gross revenue projections.

Investment income consists of the annual Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT) dividend distribution, interest, and other earnings from ICMA's investments. The REIT dividend is budgeted in alignment with the building's operating budget.

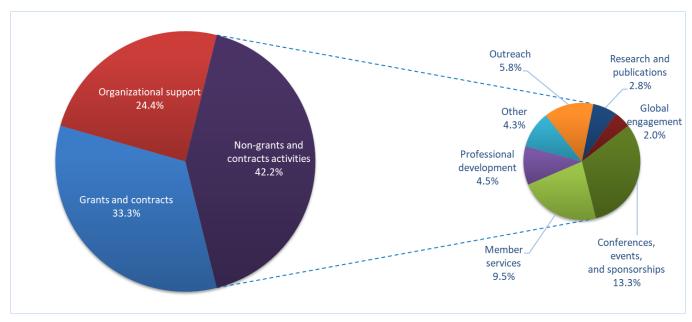

Grants and contracts revenue is budgeted at approximately $12.6 million, or 40.7 percent of total ICMA revenue from all sources. The current grants and contracts portfolio consists of several geographically diverse awards of various sizes, both prime and subawards. Approximately 11.1 percent of total budgeted grants and contracts revenue is expected to come from new, yet-to-be awarded projects. This estimate is based on the number and size of proposals currently in development or under consideration by funders, combined with our expectation of the probability of new wins.

Expense Estimates

Figure 5 illustrates the allocation of resources to three major outcome areas of ICMA's operations: non-grants and contracts activities, grants and contracts, and organizational support. In addition, non-grants and contracts activities are further broken down into member support; professional development; conferences, events and sponsorships; research and publications; outreach; global engagement, and other activities.

The FY 2023 budget includes resources to maintain minimal organizational capacity sufficient to deliver on ICMA's major priorities. At the same time, this budget proposal includes strategic uses of resources for areas deemed critical to achieving ICMA's goals, such as global engagement; implementation of the new dues model; modernization of ICMA's professional development function; and positioning ICMA as a thought leader and a provider of resources and tools on important topics such as post-pandemic economic and community recovery and restoration, local government management and policing, and racial equity and social justice, to name just a few. The use of these resources is aimed at accomplishing these and many other priorities as well as better positioning ICMA to generate additional revenue in the future. Finally, the FY 2023 budget includes funds for periodic compensation increases for staff in alignment with the labor market.

Direct Uses from Net Assets

In addition to maintaining ongoing operations and services, the FY 2023 proposed budget identifies resources needed to fund several items that are to be funded directly out of net assets rather than from operations. Figure 6 provides details of these items.

Dues model implementation: as part of the Executive Board's strategic planning process conducted from October to December 2019, the board identified ICMA's dues structure and related value of membership as a key strategic priority for the organization. At its February 2020 meeting, the board authorized the use of $75,000 of net assets to engage a consultant with experience in assisting associations with such initiatives. In FY 2021, ICMA hired McKinley Advisors for this purpose. The new dues model, developed with McKinley's assistance, was approved by the board at their December 2021 meeting. This budget proposes continued engagement with McKinley Advisors in FY 2023 for the purpose of developing an effective marketing strategy for the new model, which is scheduled to launch on October 1, 2022.

Code of Ethics review: following the Executive Board's statement on systemic racism, the board committed to revisiting the Code of Ethics to better integrate ICMA's ethical commitment to racial justice and equity into each of the 12 tenets of the Code. The board then assigned the Committee on Professional Conduct (CPC) the task of developing a plan to engage ICMA's membership in conducting a review of the Code to ensure it reflects the profession's commitment to racial justice and equity. At their December 2020 meeting, the board authorized the use of up to $100,000 of net assets to engage a consultant to assist with this work. In FY 2022, ICMA engaged the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Government, whose scope of work included a robust member engagement component. The budget includes funds for the continued engagement with the consultants, whose work is scheduled to be completed in FY 2023.

Strategic partner program redesign: ICMA has been working with a consulting firm, JSB Partners, to revamp and reimagine ICMA's strategic partner program to increase opportunities for sponsorships, partnerships, and year-round engagement with a variety of current and prospective partners. The redesigned program aims to create an effective strategy that provides value to members, sponsors, and all stakeholders, while maximizing revenue and ensuring long-term success for ICMA. The FY 2023 budget assumes continued engagement with JSB Partners, who will be providing expert assistance in the implementation of the redesigned program during the first year.

Incremental cost of an international board meeting: as part of ICMA's globalization efforts, one of the Executive Board meetings in FY 2023 may be held in a location outside of the U.S. The budget proposes use of net assets for the incremental cost of an international board meeting over and above the average cost of board meetings in the U.S.

ICMA Future of Work/office space: this line item includes potential expenses associated with modifying ICMA's future operating model, in line with the Future of Work project conduced in FY 2022.

CEO/Executive Director's contingency reserve: based on the board's Governance Subcommittee's recommendation regarding establishing a reserve as part of the annual budget to be used at the CEO/executive director's discretion, the FY 2023 budget proposal includes funds available for use by the CEO/executive director for expenditures not otherwise included in the operating budget. Updates regarding usage of this reserve will be provided to the board quarterly.

Risks and Opportunities

The risk level with respect to most of ICMA's sources of revenue has been increasing, both as a result of the adverse economic impact from the pandemic and other factors. While the FY 2023 budget is based on the best assumptions that can be made at the time of budget development, actual results may turn out materially different. The following paragraphs offer a brief analysis of the risk factors affecting major activities and revenue sources in FY 2023 as well as significant opportunities.

- Dues: we anticipate a 2 percent reduction in dues revenue, as compared with FY 2022 projections, due to the implementation of the new dues model starting with the January 2023 membership cycle. The new model includes reduced rates and a discount for small communities. Dues revenue is budgeted based on the assumption that, while individual dues rates will be lower than in the past for many of ICMA's existing members, new member recruitment will increase because of greater affordability, particularly for managers and assistants from smaller jurisdictions. Resources have been allocated in the FY 2023 budget for a vigorous marketing campaign to promote the new dues model, with the goal of increasing new member recruitment. While there is a risk associated with the recruitment assumptions, this is also a potential growth opportunity for ICMA.
- Annual conference: for the first time since the beginning of the pandemic, the annual conference is projected to generate a significant net contribution. However, given the challenges of conducting in-person events at this time due to rising prices for labor, food and beverage, technology, as well as a higher level of uncertainty than we have experienced in the past relative to the number of paid attendees and sponsors, we believe the risk level with respect to the budgeted net contribution will be higher than in prepandemic years. Also, as noted earlier, the budgeted contribution falls short of the long-standing policy that the event produce a net contribution of at least 10 to 20 percent after all expenses are paid. Under normal circumstances, compliance with this policy would likely require a reduction in conference programming and events, which could adversely impact attendee registration and the overall conference experience that members have come to expect. For these reasons, this budget proposal assumes that an exception to the policy is warranted.
- Regional conferences: the FY 2023 budget includes a plan to hold five events throughout the country between January and June 2023. These "reimagined" conferences will incorporate new and innovative programming that will attract more attendees and sponsorships, and thus greater revenue streams, all with the goal of covering all meeting expenses. However, there is a risk that, despite our best efforts, breaking even may prove to be financially hard to achieve.
- Professional development: professional development is an area of significant opportunity with respect to enhancing ICMA's value to members at all career stages and in all geographic locations while advancing the goal of positioning ICMA for long-term financial success. Key to this success is the deployment of a new learning management system, which is planned for FY 2023. While resources have been included in the budget for this implementation, this project carries a certain amount of risk, due to the complexity of deploying a major software solution such as this. Nevertheless, given our investments in this business line, budgeted revenues reflect significant growth compared with previous years, particularly from ICMA's leadership and other proprietary programs. Our ability to realize budgeted revenues will depend on staff capacity as well as the exact timing of the LMS implementation.

- Strategic partner and sponsorship program: FY 2023 will be the transition year to the redesigned strategic partner and sponsorship program that will promote year-round engagement with companies around thought leadership and other sponsorship opportunities. This is an area of significant opportunity to drive additional revenue. Early results of negotiations with some of our existing partners have been encouraging. In addition, this budget includes $100,000 in sponsorships for the National Brownfields Training Conference, which is slated for August 2022 in Oklahoma City. ICMA's ability to generate this revenue will depend on the conference taking place as scheduled.
- Global engagement: ICMA's global strategy development process, which included a robust stakeholder engagement element, is now complete, with the overall strategy pending review and adoption by the Executive Board. Assuming board approval, the implementation of this strategy will be a long-term process, which will begin in FY 2023. Meanwhile, the budget includes an assumption that ICMA will hold two professional development events outside of the US in FY 2023, as well as begin offering other professional development and learning opportunities to local government audiences internationally. These activities carry a certain amount of risk, given that ICMA will be engaged in them for the first time.
- Royalty revenue: revenue is budgeted based on the licensing agreement with ICMA-RC
 (now MissionSquare Retirement) that is currently in place. Because ICMA's royalty income is based on a formula applied to MissionSquare Retirement's gross revenue, the financial risk with respect to this revenue source is tied to the accuracy of their revenue estimates as well as equity and bond market fluctuations.
- Grants and contracts: risks related to grants and contracts revenue, which accounts for 40.7 percent of total budgeted revenues from all sources, include continued reliance on one primary source, the U.S. Agency for International Development (or USAID), for the vast majority of funding; our ability to win contracts in a highly competitive environment; and various risks associated with working in developing countries. Additional details are provided in the "Risk Analysis of Federal and Non-Federal Grants and Contracts (G&C) Support" document prepared in conjunction with the FY 2023 budget.

ICMA will utilize multiple strategies to mitigate against the risks and to take advantage of the opportunities described above, including:

 Continuous monitoring of progress against key financial and programmatic metrics and making course adjustments as needed. This strategy is even more important now, given the high level of uncertainty relative to most of our business activities during and after the pandemic.

- Focus on deploying resources strategically, and finding new, more efficient ways of delivering value to members and other stakeholders by various means, including technology.
- Enhanced marketing of our products and events, both in-person and digital, to attract returning and new participants, partners, and customers.
- Continued investment in business development, including bids and proposals, to ensure a pipeline of new, funded projects in order to meet grants and contracts revenue targets.
- Continued focus on pursuing revenues from non-dues and non-grants and contracts sources.

Financial Goals

Net Assets

Net assets represent accumulated earnings of an organization. Net assets increase or decrease as a result of annual operating surpluses or deficits. It is a measure of an organization's long-term financial stability and capacity and is calculated as assets minus liabilities. The purpose of net assets is to help organizations manage transitions, deal with economic uncertainty, and fund investments and initiatives as necessary. It is considered a best practice for nonprofit organizations to maintain a net assets balance of approximately 50 percent of their average operating budget.

ICMA's Executive Board establishes an overall net assets goal as well as interim net assets targets in five-year increments. These targets are reviewed and adjusted annually based on the organization's actual and expected financial performance. The overall net assets are further divided into reserves for specific purposes, to ensure availability of funds for various kinds of risks and opportunities.

The interim net assets target established by the board for FY 2023 is $10.3 million. This target was established with the understanding that while better-than-budgeted financial results achieved over the past several years helped to grow ICMA's net assets, it was likely that in the future the organization would need funds from net assets to invest in new initiatives and opportunities. Given the number of priorities and initiatives ICMA is currently implementing, including those with a high revenue generating potential in future years, ICMA is not in a position to generate a contribution to net assets in FY 2023. Rather, this proposal assumes the use of approximately $494,000 of net assets for operations as well as $320,000 for one-time items. With these assumptions, the net assets balance at the end of FY 2023 is expected to be approximately $13.4 million, or $3.1 million higher than the $10.3 million interim target, as illustrated in Figure 7.

Figure 8 illustrates the overall long-term net assets goal, the board-approved target for FY 2023, and the projected net assets balance for FY 2023, with allocations to various purposes.

Composition of net assets	Net assets goal (long-term)	FY 2023 net assets target	FY 2023 net assets balance (projected)
Reserve for non-G&C operating expenses (6 months)	$9,500,000	$5,900,000	$7,900,000
Reserve for investments and initiatives	3,000,000	1,930,000	2,500,000
G&C reserve (3.5% of total awards)	1,500,000	1,180,000	1,300,000
Reserve for other one-time items	2,000,000	1,290,000	1,700,000
Total	$16,000,000	$10,300,000	$13,400,000

Cash and Investments

The cash reserves goal, which is different from the net assets goal, includes operating cash and investments reserves to provide ICMA with the resources needed to continue delivery of its programs in the event of delayed payments from funders; to prevent ICMA from making expensive short-term crisis-based decisions; and to enable ICMA to focus on sound long-term decision making. The minimum cash reserve suggested by the Nonprofit Operating Reserves Initiative Workgroup is 25 percent, or three months of the annual operating expense budget. ICMA's cash and investments balance is projected to be at 64 percent of average annual operating expenses at the end of FY 2023.

FY 2023 Team Priorities and Budgets

Other

ICMA-RC (MissionSquare Retirement) royalty

In accordance with the licensing agreement with ICMA-RC (dba MissionSquare Retirement), ICMA is paid a royalty for the use of the association's name and brand. Currently, the annual payment is calculated as 1.15 percent of MissionSquare's consolidated gross revenues up to $200 million, plus .75 percent of such revenues in excess of $200 million. The FY 2023 budget includes an estimate of royalty revenue based on MissionSquare's estimates of their gross revenues for FY 2023. ICMA-RC's rebranding to MissionSquare Retirement will not impact the royalty while the licensing agreement is in effect. The agreement expires on December 31, 2036.

REIT dividend and other investment income

Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT) dividend is the income expected from ICMA's one-third ownership of its headquarters building located at 777 N. Capitol Street, NE, Washington, DC 20002. The FY 2023 budget includes an estimate of the REIT dividend based on the REIT net income projections for the calendar year 2022.

Excess space

ICMA leases approximately 42,000 square feet of space at its headquarters building, of which 1,736 square feet are subleased to another organization. While ICMA is currently marketing all of its excess space for sublease, given the challenging market conditions, it is not anticipated that ICMA will realize any additional rental revenue through the end of FY 2023. In the event ICMA is successful in securing a subtenant, additional investment in the space may be necessary to meet the requirements of the subtenant. Meanwhile, the budget assumes continued rent expense for all of the leased space, based on the lease agreement in place through December 31, 2026.

Investment income

Investment income consists of estimated earnings on operating cash reserves.

Transfer to the Future of Professional Management Fund

Beginning with FY 2022, ICMA established a practice of making an annual contribution from its general fund to the Future of Professional Management Fund for the purpose of adding to the resources available for council-manager form of government advocacy activities. Given the expectations of total general fund revenues and expenses in FY 2023, this year's budgeted contribution is $5,000.

Capital Investments and Depreciation

As part of the annual budgeting process, capital investments are reviewed to determine the equipment, software, and other capital assets that must be placed in service or replaced over the next three years. Capital expenditures are depreciated over the useful life of the asset. Decisions about financing capital investments are based on the availability of cash and other economic factors. Currently, ICMA has no investments that are financed through debt arrangements, as it has used its available cash to fund existing capital investments.

ICMA is in the process of developing a Future of Work model that would reflect emerging best practices and support new and flexible ways of working. Part of this process is exploring the most economically advantageous ways to optimize the office space and technology in support of the new model. Depending on the outcome of this process, a capital investment related to the office space may be needed in the future. No such investment has been included in the FY 2023 capital budget as the nature and size of this potential investment is unknown at this time.

Figure 9 illustrates existing capital assets and investments projected to be made in FY 2022–FY 2024, with related depreciation expenses.
