Public Safety Training Opportunities through the Association of Public Safety Officials International

By Stephen J. Wisely, Director, Comm Center & 9-1-1 Services Department, APCO International

The Association of Public Safety Officials (APCO) International is the world's largest organization dedicated to public safety communications. With a membership of 14,000 public safety professionals, APCO has a strong cadre of senior management executives, technical staff, and enthusiastic committee members. The association has a long history of providing leadership in a myriad of public safety projects and initiatives. APCO champions projects with goals to standardize processes, procedures, and services.

The APCO Institute serves as the educational arm of the association and focuses on the unique needs of the public safety communications industry. Because APCO Institute is a not-for-profit educational institute, it has the ability to provide affordable options and certification, including train-the-trainer programs and in-house training, that traditional for-profit training businesses can't or won't.

APCO is an ANSI Standards Development Organization and in this capacity has actively worked with its Standards Development Organization (SDO) committee to move forward in the critical area of standards. For more information on training available through the APCO Institute, visit www.apcointl.org.
