2. DEFINITIONS

Keys to the City

The tradition of using a key dates back to medieval times, when many cities were enclosed within walled fortifications. The key symbolised the political relationship between a city and the King/Queen or ruler of the land on which the city was located. When the ruler visited the city for the first time after assuming power, the authorities would formally greet him/her at the gates and hand over a key to signify that the city was now under his/her control. The key would then be returned by the ruler to the city authorities to acknowledge that he/she intended to respect the political authority of those who administered the city.

The Key to the City of Stonnington is presented by the Mayor at a civic ceremony to acknowledge the contribution of an individual or organisation in furthering the ideals of the city, or to recognise outstanding achievement in public life.

Freedom of Entry to the City

Freedom of Entry to the City of Stonnington is a ceremonial honour. The honour became popular during the nineteenth century and draws some inspiration from medieval history. A military or civilian unit accorded this privilege is granted the right of entry to the city “with bayonets fixed, colours flying and drums beating”. This award is restricted to Australian military and civilian units that have, through their command, a significant attachment to the City of Stonnington. It is conferred in recognition of their achievement while on active service or overseas duty or as a mark of respect and gratitude for their efforts in the defence of Australia.
