

Rethinking How Small Communities Deliver Services

Tuesday, September 27, 2016
2:00 PM - 3:10 PM

Panelists:

Charlie Francis, Director, Government Finance Solutions, OpenGov, Inc., Redwood City, CA
Seth Hoffman, City Manager, City of Lone Tree, CO
Molly Hood, Deputy City Manager, City of Cape Girardeau, MO

Session Leader:

Michael Scanlon, Manager in Transition, Town of Basalt, CO

ICMA 2016 | SEPT 25-28
KANSAS CITY
102nd ANNUAL CONFERENCE

What to expect from this session....

- A facilitated conversation – with you the audience participating in the conversation.
- Three unique perspective from small community managers and a service provider. Who we represent....
 - College Community – Rural
 - Suburban – Metropolitan
 - Resort – Rural
- The title of the session is a bit long so we would propose that those attending start thinking and talking around a new paradigm or thesis – which is this

"Small communities need to become virtual organizations that collaborate to deliver good services."

Sub-Title -- We Don't Do It Alone – We Do It Together!

Quick introductions from our Panelists

Who they are, who they work for and what are the top three issues for them today in their jobs.

- Molly
- Seth
- Charlie

Our Thesis for Today

"Small communities need to become virtual organizations that collaborate to deliver good services."

We Don't Do It Alone – We Do It Together!

What are your ideas on this topic?

How do you build this virtual organization?

Our Contact Information

Molly Hood – mhood@CityofCapeGirardeau.org

Charlie Francis – cfrancis@opengov.com

Seth Hoffman – seth.hoffman@cityoflontree.com

Mike Scanlon – mscanlon6841@gmail.com

ICMA 2016 | SEPT 25-28

KANSAS CITY

102nd ANNUAL CONFERENCE

