Powerful workflow tools

The admin view of the software allows staff to review submitted applications, and move them through predefined workflow steps. Staff can claim submitted applications or assign them to other staff. Applications can be rejected, edited, or approved. Once an application is approved, the permit or license is issued to the applicant via email. Form types may also be set to issue automatically if no review is required. All actions taken on an application are logged in an audit trail along with date and time stamps.
